ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS A YEAR IN ADVANCE

OIL NEWS

During the past week new interests have taken hold in the Knox County Oil Field and keen activity is being manifested for territory within the limits of late developments on Little Richland Creek. Recent findings there have confirmed our belief that within a short time this county will be among the big producing counties of the State.

Bingham Oil Company's No. 3, on the Ike Jones place, which flowed 160 feet above the casing, caught on fire and burned the rig, will soon be turned into the tank. Dan Jackson, the contractor, completed the repairs to his machine and will now move to No. 2 to drill this well to the second pay. One tank has been filled and others are under construction to take care of the production.

Ken-Flo Oil Company will shoot No. 1 on the L. G. Morris tract this week the nitro-glycerine now being en-route from the Lee County field.

Wyand Oil Company's No. 1 on the Susan Jackson lease showed a capacity of 11 barrels. The second test is well under way.

Mutual Oil and Gas Company on Big Richland Creek is shut down for casing in its initial test on the Millard lease. Should a paying well be found here it will mean quite an extension of the Ike Jones pool on Little Richland, lying about a mile and a half east.

The Associated Producers Oil Co. has made several locations for deep tests on Stinking Creek.

R. W. Edgett's No. 1, on the Tom McDonald farm is down 165 feet.

Development will soon start on the Spence Foley farm, Indian Creek under lease to J. A. McDermott. Atlanta parties will be interested in this operation.

Unknown parties are making a deep test on the Knox County side near Corbin, where gas and a showing of oil were found several years ago in what is now supposed to have been the "Irvine Sand."

New machines are now en-route to the Knox County field and indications are for pronounced activity during the summer and fall.

The Dulin well on Sexton's Creek is due in this week.

Ken-Flo No. 2 was shot Wednesday and is good for from 30 to 40 barrels. No. 4 was shot with results yet undetermined.

The Wyand Oil Company has installed a new gas engine.

R. L. Hyman and associates of Atlanta, Ga., who are interested in some properties on Indian Creek will arrive Friday to develop the same.

SOL T. STEELE
Appointed To War Risk Insurance Bureau

Sol T. Steele, than whom there is no more popular gentleman in Barbourville, has been appointed to an important position in the legal department of the War Risk Insurance Bureau at Washington. We congratulate Mr. Steele on his appointment and know that he will make a success of his new work.

CARNES BOY IMPROVING

The eight year old son of John D. Carnes who recently shot himself with a .41 revolver is improving nicely. The boy was playing with the gun which went off, the bullet passing downward thru the thigh, striking the leg and imbedding itself in the ankle where it still remains. Dr. F. R. Burton will remove the bullet later.

See What Carroll's Home County is Doing For Him.

What will Knox County Do for Her Distinguished Citizen?

In the Henry County Local, July 4th. in the center of the first page we find these statements. "If the people of Henry County could realize the distinction it would bring us to furnish the Governor of Kentucky they would, SIDE TRACK POLITICS, AND ALLOW COUNTY PRIDE TO CONTROL THEM AND GIVE JUDGE CARROLL THEIR UNITED AND ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORT. Everybody meet next Monday in New Castle and let us show the people of Kentucky that John D. Carroll's home folks are solidly behind him".

Has Henry County more pride than Knox County? Will we let Henry County do more to show Kentucky what it will do for her citizen, than the citizens of Knox County will do to bring distinction to their home County? Shall Henry County put Politics aside and allow County Pride to control them, and take from Knox County the distinction of furnishing the Governor of Kentucky? No! Knox County is as good as Henry County and better and we will show Henry county that we will stand with our citizen like red-blooded citizens, that we are, to support our citizen, Gov. James D. Black, on Saturday, August 2nd. man to man and bring the honor to Knox County of furnishing the Governor of Kentucky.

LET US NOT FORGET

And don't forget that following the Chautauqua, which you have no doubt attended, there will be three days of education offered you at the Farmer's Tent School. This course will be one which will interest every man or woman who has the well-being of the County at heart, as well as those important members of society, who thru their club work, are learning the best in scientific agriculture.

FEMALE INJURED SUNDAY

As the L. & N. No. 23 pulled into Ralston Sunday a female became confused on the track and was thrown off by the train. She was picked up apparently unconscious and carried up town. Many questions were hurled out of the window but as the train did not delay its departure it was not possible to learn to what family she belonged. Whether suit for damages against the L. & N. has been instituted we have not learned, but it is felt the engineer was not to blame since the hen had no business on the track. She had brown feathers and looked as tho she might, in life, have been a mother and a good layer.

FIRE IN CORBIN

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the office, store room, fixtures and stock of the Singer Sewing Machine Company on Main St. and the adjoining building, Preston's Restaurant, early Thursday (July 3rd) morning. In the second floor of the Singer building lived a family by the name of Snell, who were away on a week's vacation. Everything they had went up in smoke. A few things were saved from the building, including one $225 hem-stitching machine. No insurance on building or stock was carried.

The restaurant was a complete loss, except the soda fountain, which can be repaired for usage, a few bottles of pop and one tub of ice cream. Mr. and Mrs. Preston barely escaped with their lives. Mrs. Preston being a paralytic, had to be assisted. No insurance on this building or stock was carried.

LIEUTENANT SCENT HOME

Lieutenant Edward W. Scent arrived home Monday morning after two years service in the 113th Supply Train, 38th Division, U. S. Army. He was first at Camp Shelby, Miss. from there he went to where he did convoy instruction work at Buffalo and Baltimore. He crossed the seas October 1st and while his party had a night with a sub, he did not see the undersea pirate. Landing at Liverpool, he went to Southampton and from there to Cherbourg, France. Lieut. Scent's duties were conveying trucks to the Army of Occupation from base ports and furnishing transportation to troops returning to the States. He put in eight months service following the armistice and left Bordeaux for home June 19th, arriving at New York June 30th.

Mr. Scent saw the devastated district around Verdun which was very bad. He has brought home a number of pictures as a memento of his trip.

MORE ABOUT BLACK LEG

J. S. Patterson, of Highland Park, who has lost three cattle this week from black leg, while John H. Burgess lost one, states that Dr. Wigginton, of Harlan County, is of the opinion the disease is carried by a fly, also dogs, birds or any other stock. The egg is carried by these various agencies and develops in the shoulder and bowels. Once the disease gets a hold there is no show for it, but prevention by vaccination is the remedy.

All stock that dies should be burned so that the disease may not be carried to well stock.

There is a possibility that a long legged fly known as the Oklahoma when it may be a carrier. This fly is about the size of a house fly and has long legs. Whether this is so or not, the real remedy or prevention is to vaccinate.

Street paving is now proceeding on Knox street which will soon be included in the list of macadamized streets.

JUST FOLKS

EDITORS

There are editors and editors. There is The Editor and others. The Editor is alright. Knowing him self as others know him not, knowing his many brilliant talents, his virtues, vivacity, scintillating wit, charm of manner, easy grace, his racy, facile style and general editorial powers, The Editor is prepared to swear on a stack of Webster's unabridged dictionaries, that he is the most important man in the community to himself. Indeed, knowing himself to be what he is and looking abroad over the whole community, scanning other men who might have been editors had they been keen enough and who are now bitterly jealous of The Editor on account of the many graces, virtues and talents aforementioned, The Editor, looking on or scanning other men, scanning them, indeed, commiseratingly, is of the opinion that they are foolish to give away to envy.

Years ago The Editor had no more idea than had they that he was destined to be a bright light hidden under a bushel in the journalistic ranks, — but Fate, that great, big factor, took the then little boy, carefully stuffed his mind with pearls of wisdom and finally when he was sufficiently like an oyster, opened him up and showed him off to an admiring world.

Modesty forbids The Editor to boast, far be it indeed from him to point out his own qualities, he would rather the public should enjoy them and talk about them to each other, than that he should do it himself. Wives, looking on The Editor, may sigh that husband is not more like him; fathers may point him out to their sons as one they may emulate with profit, as one who has risen to his present proud eminence thru no fault of his own and The Editor will not be displeased. Not at all and they need fear no suit for libel. Truth will out doncherknow.

The reason men envy an editor is because he has such an easy, care-free life. Advertisers, especially the home merchants, fairly mob him with advertising. Business men prayerfully beg him to do their job work for them and the readers of the inspired newspaper over which he presides, insist that, if they are not permitted to subscribe and pay in advance, life will be one long, dreary thing after another.

And what the editor deigns to do in return for these people is laughably easy. He buys about $6000 to $8000 worth of metal and paper and then walks around town imbibing information as to the lives, habits, customs, etc., of his fellow men. These he dresses in their best clothes so to speak, and presents them to the view of the fellow men and women. The result is especially interesting to the women, who are great students of bipedery, male and female.

Then the Editor makes metal soup skims it and makes nifty little briquettes of it, sorts pi, occasionally, deigns to run a press, corrects proof, mails out newspapers, aootes vexed people who have failed to get their copy, writes those uplift articles which are such a respected feature of the newspaper, writes advertisers, corrects addresses, does the immense banking business which enables the banks to show such large deposits in their quarterly statements and, with a few more playful duties, gets it all done in some ten hours a day.

Lack of space forbids us to touch on editors who are not The Editor and being a touchy family it is perhaps better so.

In conclusion, The Editor wishes to say he loves to give pleasure to people who are desirous of advertising the fact that they have something to sell. Job work to be done or who yearn to pay their subscriptions. Not that The Editor can possibly need money, but merely that such actions show how much they appreciate the virtues aforementioned and ready to be sworn to on a stack of Webster's unabridged dictionaries.

The last sentence proved so long it almost took The Editor's breath away and he trusts no reader with heart trouble will read it.

And when The Editor is buried he hopes you will all go where he has gone as he wishes every one of you well.

MAKING MONEY

Money is not made along the line of least resistance. The manufacturer who would succeed must study the heat methods of making, selling and delivering his goods. The merchant who would rise to something great, must study buying, display and advertising. The teacher must keep abreast of the times; the town and county must put down good streets and roads and look after sanitation, schools etc. The Church cannot afford to become a snug, holler than thou institution, repellent in a snug Phariseism, but must, if it would fulfill its mission, go out into the highways and hedges and compel people to come in and the farmer who would succeed must use, not only hrawn and muscle, but also the brains with which Providence has endowed him. The trouble with most of us is that we get our own perspectives too close to our eyes. The way to study a picture is to stand some distance away and examine it in a good light. The breed of cattle, hogs, sheep, chickens, the kind of seed used, may not be important, but it is important what the quality may be.

It is also most important as to what is not only adaptable but also what will make the most money. Money is not an evil, merely an over love of it is evil. Hence it is every man's duty to make all the money he can by producing the things that will sell for the greatest amount of cash.

One of our neglected industries is fruit growing. There is not a farmer, who by intelligent selection of trees, planted on the hillsides, and the protection of them during a few nights of spring, cannot double, triple or quadruple his income. The fact that the fruit is planted on the hill sides and the lack of wind in this section should make it easy to smudge against frost. The smoke would rise from below and form a protection against frost. Apples raised in Kentucky have been contracted for at $2.50 a bushel this year. Sit down and figure what ten acres of choice apples would bring you on this basis, Mr. Farmer, and compare it with what other hillside crops bring. Just think about it and plant out a few acres, spray, prune and protect the trees and your bank account will not know itself.

THE U. S. INFANTRY

The Body of the Army! The Branch to Which All Others are Auxiliary and Subsidiary

The Infantryman is the typical soldier. When anyone speaks in your hearing of a soldier your mind instantly pictures an Infantryman, a "doughboy;" for remember it is the Infantryman alone that the term "doughboy" really belongs and it is due to his being so truly the representative and type of what goes to make a soldier that it has become customary to apply to all members of our expeditionary name that in the old regular army pertained only to the Infantryman.

It is the Infantryman who mans the trenches. It is he who boes over the top, it is he who comes into hand to hand conflict with the enemy.

The aviator observes for him, the artillery clears his path; all prepare the way for the Infantryman to take the first decisive action, to make the assault.

The life of the Infantryman appears alike to the soldier who wishes to re-enlist and to the young man who looks toward the army either as a career or as a stepping stone to something else. To the seasoned soldier it means the life to which is accustomed with more leisure than can be afforded him in the other branches, to the man who desires to enter the service permanently it offers as can no other branch, an opportunity to absorb soldierly instincts and the military habits of mental and physical accuracy and self control while allowing more time than do the other branches for study and the preparation towards obtaining an appointment to West Point, a commission direct from the ranks or in exercising some choice of occupation on his return to civil life.

MRS. HURN'S LETTER

Here is a letter that is certain to prove of interest to people in this vicinity, as cases of this sort occur in almost every neighborhood, and people should know what to do in like circumstances:

Savannah, Mo., Oct. 12, 1916.
"I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery.) I had another attack of the same complaint some three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy to dozens of people since I first used it."

A Coated Tongue? What it Means

A bad breath, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, languor and debility, are usually signs that the liver is out of order.

PROF. HEMMERTER says: "The liver is an organ secondary in importance only to the heart."

We can manufacture poisons within our own bodies which are as deadly as a snake's venom.

The liver acts as a guard over our well-being, sifting out the elders and ashes from the general circulation.

A blockage in the intestines piles a heavy burden upon the liver. If the intestines are choked or clogged up, the circulation of the blood becomes poisoned and the system becomes loaded with toxic waste, and we suffer from headache, yellow-coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, nausea, or gas, acid dyspepsia, languor, debility, yellow skin or eyes. At such times one should take castor oil or a pleasant laxative. Such a one is made of May-apple, leaves of aloe and jalap, put into ready-to-use form by Doctor Pierce, nearly fifty years ago, and sold for 25 cents by all druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

WHAT IS A WELL SPENT LIFE?

Much has been said and many long drawn out articles have been written on the life that is well spent. One can look back over the life that is spent and pick up stray ends here and there, and conclude that he is his horn of love and hope, of tears and joys, ecstasy, pain, agony and fear, and yet, endowed with a heart that is touched with every interest that marks the outlines of true manhood.

Man recalls the time when he was held in happy arms, with lips upon life's drifted font, blue-veined and fair, where peace finds perfect form; yes, rocked by willing feet and wooed to shadowy shores of sleep by a loving mother, singing the old time songs, sweet and low, looking with every day thingsetal shrd emfwm wonder's wide and startled eyes of common every day things of life; taught by want and wish and contact with the things that touch the dimpled flesh of babies; lured by flame and charmed color's most wonderful robes; he learns the use of hands and feet, and by love beguiled he utters speech, he releases his thoughts.

He begins to puzzle his brain with crooked numbers and their churning, tangled worth; so he goes on through years of alternating day and night, until he grows familiar with the limitations of this life.

It matters not, time runs on in sun and shadow until he wooses and wins and again, and all the lore of love is taught and learned again. Another home is built. In whose chamber there are faint dreams of the past, like cool and shadowed vales where hours and billows of love are had and enjoyed again, and then again there is another birth, a joy, a kiss of welcome and a new cradle and the same old time lullaby that was had in the long ago.

Then comes the time when he realizes his obligation, he has pity for those who toil and weep, tears for the imprisoned and despised and love for the generous dead and in his heart there is the rapture of a high resolve. Then ambition withits lust of place and power, longing to wear upon his breast distinction's worthless badge. Then comes the better thought of men, his eyes see behind the smiling mask of craft, he is flattered no more by the cringe of gain and greed, he realizes the uselessness of hoarded gold, of honors bought from those who charge usury of self respect, of power that only bends a cowar's knee and forces from the lips of fear the lies of praise. He finds at last the unstudied gesture of esteem, the reverent eyes made rich with honest thought, and holding high above all other things, yes, high is hope's great throbbing star above the darkness of our sainted dead, the love of wife, child, and old time friend.

Then come the locks of gray, and the returned love of other days and half remembered things that happened in the long ago, holding the withered hands of those who first held his, while over dim and loving eyes that once sparkled with life's young dreams and love, death softly presses down the lids of rest to no forever still.

So looking back to the time when he gave his children's hands in marriage, and of crossing others hands across a breast in death, and taking the babes of his own daughters upon his knees he mingles the silver gray among the golden locks, he continues the journey on and on from day to day, toward the western horizon where the dusk of life is waiting for the night of death. At last, and alas, sitting by his holy hearthstone in his home as evenings' embers of life change from red to gray, he falls asleep, and feeling the warm kiss of the loved ones who have followed his every step to make his life one of happiness, he realizes, that tho his road has been beset with many dangers, the snares and pitfalls have been many, yet he feels that his has been a life well spent.

TALK about smokes, Prince Albert is geared to a joyhandout standard that just lavishes smokehappiness on every man game enough to make a bee line for a tidy red tin and a jimmy pipe—old or new!

Get it straight that what you've hankered for in pipe or cigarette makin's smokes you'll find aplenty in P. A. That's because P. A. has the quality!

You can't any more make Prince Albert bite your tongue or parch your throat than you can make a horse drink when he's off the water! Bite and parch are cut out by our exclusive patented process!

You just lay back like a regular fellow and puff to beat the cards and wonder why in samhill you didn't nail a section in the P. A. smokepasture longer than you care to remember back!

Buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold. Tippy red bags, tidy red tins, handsome pound and half pound tin humidors—and—that clever, practical pound crystal glass humidior with sponge moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such perfect condition.

IT CAN BE DONE

Somebody said that it couldn't be done.
But he, with a chuckle, replied That "maybe it couldn't," but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he tried.
So he hunkled right in, with a trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the
thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it!
Somebody scoffed, "Oh, you'll never
do it."
At least, no one has ever done it."
But he took off his coat and he took off his hat
And the first thing we knew he'd begun it.
With a lift of his chin and a bit of a grin,
Without any doubting or quibbling,
He started to sing as he tackled the
thing
That "cannot be done" and he
did it!
There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done.
There are thousands to prophesy
failure;
There are thousands to point out to
you, one by one,
The dangers that wait to resist
you.
But just buckle in, with a bit of a grin
Then take off your coat and go
to it;
Just start in to sing as you tackle
the thing
That "cannot be done," and you'll
do it!

HOW TO OPERATE INCUBATOR

Machine Should Be Placed in Fairly Warm Room and Protected Against Outside Changes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One difficulty in setting eggs as early in the spring as is necessary for early hatchers, is the natural system of incubation is followed, is in finding broody hens at the proper time. If natural incubation be depended upon exclusively the poultry raiser must wait until the hens are ready to set. This is not true, however, if an incubator is available, for if the eggs are fertile they can be started at any time
the operator desires.

The incubator should be operated in a fairly warm room, preferably a cellar, as a protection against outside temperature changes. Sudden changes in temperature in the room are to be avoided. The machine should be disinfected thoroughly before being used with a solution of reliable coal turdisinfectant.

Instead of using such a solution a small receptacle containing one-half ounce of permanganate of potash on which one-half ounce of formalin has been poured may be shut up in the incubator. The resulting gas will thoroughly disinfect the machine. After disinfecting the incubator should be run empty for several days to get it into good operating condition. After the eggs are in place the temperature should be held at 101½ to 102 degrees Fahrenheit the first week, 102 to 103 degrees the second week, and 103 the third week.

The eggs usually are turned for the first time at the end of the second day, and twice daily through the eighteenth or nineteenth day. The eggs are coiled outside the hatching chamber once daily after the seventh and up to the nineteenth day. Moisture should be furnished in artificial incubation

Removing Hatch From Incubator.

In the South, in high altitudes, and when the incubator room is dry. This may be done by sprinkling the eggs with warm water or by placing a wet sponge or pan of water under the egg tray.

During the hatching period carefully fill the lamp and trim the wick each day. It is best to trim the wick by scrapping off the burnt portion rather than by cutting the wick. The lamp should not be tilted entirely. After the lamp is tilted it should be closely observed for a time to make sure that the flame does not get too high.

SPRING CONDITION OF HENS

Lack of Exercise and Too Much Feed of Dry Kind Often Cause of Constipation.

In the spring fowls often show up in constipational condition. It is usually caused by lack of exercise, green stuff, grit and too much feed of a dry kind. You notice it first on the soiled feathers, next the clogging of the vent. This immediately calls for a physic. One tablespoonful of castor oil or half-teaspoonful of epsom salts to each fowl, and the last may be continued in broken doses in food or water for several days after. Feed them boiled potatoes, all the cabbage and other green stuff at hand, and make them hunt for their grain. These constipated fowls are no good as breeders until you get them toned up.

POULTRY NOTES

Carelessness in purchasing hatching eggs retards stock improvement.

After all, it is the little things that count for the most in poultry raising

Experience teaches us that great care is needed to prevent poultry parasites and poultry diseases.

The fresher the eggs are when used for hatching, the better, and eggs over 15 days should be discarded.

If it is worth your while to set any eggs at all, it surely is worth your while to set the eggs worth while.

When the parent birds lack vitality
the chicks are naturally weak, not worth raising, and it is time, patience and money thrown away.

PLANT MORE CHERRY TREES

Good Reasons for Urging Increased Cultivation of Useful and Pretty Bearers of Fruit.

Although in at least two states,
Pennsylvania and Ohio, there are more than 1,000,000 cherry trees and nearly as many in several other states, the commercial interests are relatively small compared with several other fruits in which the number of trees is considerably less.

In the south the summers are too long and hot, as a rule, for cherries to do well, and they do their best at the higher altitudes.

In their endurance of low temper-tures sour cherries compare favorably with apples. Sweet cherries are less hardy than sour sorts. Their endurance of cold corresponds more nearly to that of the peach.

Cherries are sensitive to a poorly drained soil. Clay soils, extremely retentive of moisture, give the poorest results, and the lighter, better drained soils the best. Soils that dry out excessively are also unsatisfactory. Moderately productive soils give better results than those which represent either extreme in fertility. Cherries blossom comparatively early, the sweet sorts earlier in most cases than the sour varieties; therefore sites that are subject to spring frosts during the usual blossoming period should be avoided.

MAKES GOOD GRAVEL WALK

Directions for Building Pathway That Will Last for Years and Always Be Dry.

To make a good gravel walk first dig a deep trench the full width of the walk. Fill up the first, or bottom, 12 inches of the trench, with stones, in-cladding those found in digging it. On this have a layer of ashes 8 to 12 inches deep when well rolled. Finish off with about 6 inches of gravel, shaped so as to give a rounded surface,

highest in the center.

This will soon pack down into a hard surface that will always be dry.

Many Factors in Tree Planting.

In places the trees along the roadside form screens so as to break up the long stretches of views and allow openings here and there which frame and make more attractive the roadside scenery. Again, certain varieties of trees are more suitable for highway planting than others, according to the use to which they will be put. The factor of planting for the protection afforded the pavement through shade
during the hot summer months, thereby adding many years to its life, and the assistance given by the proper planting of shrubs and trees in keeping the drifting snow from the roadside during the winter season should be likewise considered.

Business and Residential Streets.

Keeping business off residential streets means keeping it on business streets. Haphazard development hurts business property as much as it does residence property. The sporadic store invading quiet home streets not only demoralizes residential values; in decentralizing the shopping district it also disintegrates business values.

Viewed in every way the experience of New York has clearly demonstrated that no large city can afford to do without zoning.—American Architect.

Character and Careers.

Some one has said that character is greater than any career, and nothing that you will ever accomplish compares in importance to the making of yourself. To be noble, pure and strong, with courage for every misfortune, a helping hand for whoever needs it, and kindness for all, is worth more than to write one's name high in the list of those the world counts great.—Girl's Companion.

The Way to Save Time.

The only way to save time is to use it. We can put our money into the savings bank to be kept for us till we are ready to use, but there is no such thing as putting by our leisure moments till we need them. If you would save time, use it, for you cannot hoard it.—Girl's Companion.

HUNTING SQUIRRELS — SHOT SELF

On July 3rd, Johnnie Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Fount, Ky., decided to hunt squirrels and while fixing a revolver, the animal went off, shooting him in the leg, making a painful but not serious flesh wound which Dr. F. R. Burton was called on to treat.

HEALTH IS WEALTH

The young man who was robust was able to fight for Uncle Sam; the man who was not physically fit was turned down. Altho business does not turn a man down who is not normal in health, still he does not have a full chance to make good in life. John D. Rockefeller offered a million dollars for a first class stomach because he realized the value of health in hard cash.

Dr. J. I. Wittenburg will tell his audience something about "Health is Wealth" during the Farmers' Community Meeting. Men, women and children are all vitally interested in health and are sure to be interested in this talk.

MEVEY TO SPEAK

Dr. Frank McVey, President of the University of Kentucky, has announced that he will speak on "Organizing the Community" at the Farmers' Community Meeting at Barbourville during the week of July 14th next. Dr. McVey is widely known all over the United States as an educator and a writer of books on business and finance. He will be unable to fill many dates during the summer so Knox County is fortunate indeed to have him be one of the speakers.

Business men, farmers and professional men should by all means make a great effort to hear Dr. McVey talk on the importance of getting together to change a neighborhood into a community with a spirit to do the things which count in life.

HE KNOWS SCHOOLS

The citizens of Knox County are to be congratulated that V. O. Gilbert, the Superintendent of Public Instruction of Kentucky, has agreed to talk at the Farmers' Community Meeting on "Making Better Schools." Prof. Gilbert knows the rural school and its many troubles. He taught school in the country and later he taught in the Western State Normal School, so he can talk with authority on the subject.

Prof. Gilbert has promised the committee that unless something absolutely unusual occurs, he will be in these meetings the whole week of the 14th. Every citizen, who believes in giving the children a real education and a fair chance in life, should be present and hear Prof. Gilbert.

NOTICE

We have several lowering straps used at funerals in the country at different places and shall greatly appreciate the return of these straps. Miller & Hopper. 36-11

Lena Gale Yount, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Yount, died July 8th at the family home on Allison Ave., age 3 months and 2 days. The funeral was held on Wednesday, July 9th, interment being in the City Cemetery.

WAR BROUGHT CHANGE

The housekeeper of today is a very different person from what she was a few years ago. The war has forced her to change her ideas of any things and has also made her co-operate in war work. She learned to do team work in sewing or rolling bandages; she learned that her family could eat and be satisfied with food which in the days of peace it would not even consider. She is open minded and therefore ready to have home-making, drying, canning or any other topic discussed.

Miss Dora Sonnday, of the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture, will talk at the Farmers Community Meeting on Home-making. All the housekeepers will want to hear what she has to say.

DEMISE

Mrs. Martha Ann Branham, better known as Aunt Ann, who has peddled in town for the past thirty-five years, died at the home of her son, Henry Branham, Thursday, July 3rd and was buried in the Licklitter grave yard July 4th. Two sons and two daughters, all married, survive her.

HOLMES LIKES CHICKENS

"Just Chickens" has been given J. H. Holmes, of the Experiment Station, as his subject because his hobby and life work is centered in the chicken pens at Lexington. He has been busy all year testing the laying of hens by using electric light early in winter mornings. He will be busy later in the season out in the State showing the farmer's wises how to cull out their "clacker" hens.

Chickens and eggs always have furnished the woman in the country with pin money. Now that prices for poultry and eggs are high, they can earn a great deal of money for the good housewife. These women should by all means hear Mr. Holmes talk about what can be done with "Just Chickens" at the Farmers Community Meeting.

Some Barbourville People May Wait Till Its Too Late

Don't wait until too late. Be sure to be in time. Just in time with kidney pills means curing the backache, the dizziness, the urinary disorders. That so often come with kidney troubles. Doan's Kidney Pills are for this very purpose. Here is testimony to prove their merit.

Wm. Samuels, railroad engineer, Fourth and Poplar Sts., Corbin, Ky. says: "Some time ago my kidneys became disordered and I had soreness and a dull ache across my back. I felt tired and dull at times and my kidneys acted irregularly. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills helping other railroad men, so I bought a box. I used this medicine as directed and it soon rid me of the pains in my back and other symptoms of kidney trouble."

A Doctor's Gift to The World

A Remedy to Overcome Catarrh and Catarrhal Conditions was Dr. Hartman's Legacy to the World of Suffering.

The Doctor early recognized the insidious nature of catarrh and consecrated his life to checking the ravages of the worst of all health destroyers.

PERUNA

The Greatest of All Catarrh Remedies

Catarrh first attacks the mucous linings in the nose, throat, lungs, stomach, bowels or any other part of the body. Unchecked it finally breaks down the tissues and chronic ailments develop which, if not fatal, are always difficult to cure.

Guard your health with Peruna. Don't wait until all catarrhal inflammation and congestion of the mucous linings. Many startling recoveries have been recorded.

TOOK IT FOR CHRONIC BRONCHITIS.

"I was troubled for four or five years. A few doses of Peruna would always bring relief. In the Spring of 1914, I began taking Peruna in earnest and used twelve bottles and have not had an attack in two years. I feel better and can do more work than in ten years. Peruna also cured me of chronic Bronchitis and I recommend it as a splendid remedy."

A FAMILY MEDICINE

In Her Mother's Home, Says This Georgia Lady, Regarding Black-Draught, Relief From Head-ache, Malaria, Chills, Etc.

Ringgold, Ga.— Mrs. Chas. Gaston, of this place, writes: "I am a user of Thedford's Black-Draught; in fact, it was one of our family medicine. Also in my mother's home, when I was a child. When any of us children complained of headache, usually caused by constipation, she gave us a dose of Black-Draught, which would rectify the trouble. Often in the Spring, we would have malaria and chills, or troubles of this kind, we would take Black-Draught pretty regular until the liver acted well, and we would soon be up and around again. We would not be without it, for it certainly has saved us lots of doctor bills. Just a dose of Black-Draught when not so well saves a lot of days in bed."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been in use for many years in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and the popularity which it now enjoys is proof of its merit. If your liver is not doing its duty, you will suffer from such disagreeable symptoms as headache, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc., and unless something is done, serious trouble may result.

Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a valuable remedy for these troubles. It is purely vegetable, and acts in a prompt and natural way, regulating the liver to its proper functions and cleansing the bowels of impurities. Try it. Insist on Thedford's, the original and genuine. B 79

CLARK IS WELL KNOWN

The men at Berea are well known in all of the mountain counties of Kentucky, and F. O. Clark, who will speak at the Tent School July 18th, needs no introduction to audiences in the territory from which Berea gets a large portion of its student body. Mr. Clark will talk for the Y. M. C. A. on "The Rural Church" and no topic lies closer to the heart of the people in the country than their home church.

Everything in this day and generation is undergoing changes and many people are wondering what changes will take place in churches in the cities and in the country. Mr. Clark certainly knows the country and should have a vital message for the people.

NOTICE

Beginning July 1, 1919

Please come in with your Tax List. Don't wait for the Assessor as the Legislature has abolished that office and it is up to you personally.

My office is at the Court House, Barbourville, Ky., and I shall be there to receive your list between July 1 and October 31. Failure to hand in list subjects you to a $50 fine. I should greatly regret having to report any one for failing to list their property, but this is the law. Don't wait until the last minute to list. You may get sick and fail at the last moment.

Your obedient servant,
W. N. Epperson,
Tax Commissioner, Knox County.

HOG SCRATCH POST SCRATCHINGS

Bill Sykes says if the farmers of Christian County made $220 per acre from strawberries, he believes the farmers of Knox County are just as good Christians as they are and he wouldn't mind chipping in on the game himself if some of his neighbors will standardize on the kind of strawberries to be grown in his section.

A fellow got rich in our burk last week selling liniment good for man and beast. The next morning Charlie Smith was found milking Squire Jenkin's cows under the belief they were his own. Squire let him finish the job. Charlie said the liniment had upset him. The women say it was made from corn and ore mad about it.

Willie Spender allows the Barbourville streets are good enough to dance on and he wants to petition the Mayor to rope off a part of the Public Square when finished, put a band in the garden and Willie says he will do the rest.

Hiram Kinshaw has some literature from Frankfort about how to save sweet potatoes until spring. He is going to build a special house for them. Hiram's brains are part of his farm equipment.

Jim Slucker, who lost his mud-hole recently says the country's going to the bow-wow. His corn ain't no good, his potatoes died off and even the grass shows signs of hurting to grow. Jim says his health ain't what it was, anyway, with he's lived a Christian life.

Willie Simpson wants to know who has the best batting average in the League of Nations and he'll bet it's Tye Cobb or Jackson. None of their foreign fellows could do much against our boys.

Jim Jipson, our mechanical genius, is back from Louisville and says he has a new idea for milking which he got since the cow kicked in his ribs. It is a mechanical calf which the cow will take to be her offspring and willingly deliver up the lactated fluid. The mechanical calf will be electrically worked.

Heck Hicks has become a poet. He has visited several of the homes in this vicinity of late to read his productions. Your correspondent copied one of the poems to show what a cheerful cuss Heck is in poetry. Some of the women have felt real bad after reading it. "I am young yet, but some day I'll be older; Tho now it's summer time, it will be colder. Life is pretty good just now, but it will probably be worse. And our blessings often end up in a curse."

When things look bright and cheerful, beware, beware! The world is full of sorrow, grief, despair.

If you feel inclined to laugh, don't do it to your sorrow; You're living men today but may be dead tomorrow.

Heck wants to find a publisher, Mr. Editor, and I told him I'd ask you what you would pay him. He has about twenty poems.

Humdinger.

Note by Editor. — Please tell Heck Hicks that I read his poem to the office devil who said he liked it. It made him feel that Heck knew what he had to put up with in a printing office. They work your head off and kick if you pl a galley or two of type, get your finger nails all blue so your girl thinks you don't clean 'em and make you throw in a lot of type they're too lazy to do it themselves. But about publishing the poems. We should like to oblige Heck but are afraid they would make our compositor so unhappy that he would go out and kick a dog and get bitten and be laid up and prevent the paper coming out and make lots of people miserable. Thanks for the offer, however.

The American Red Cross is about to distribute to the hospitals of the United States approximately 25,000,000 yards of gauze, such distribution being based upon data procured and recommendations made by the American Hospital Association. Inquiries have already been received from various hospitals as to this possibility of utilizing services of Red Cross workers in making up this material into surgical dressings. Assisting the civil hospitals of the country in this manner is thoroughly in accord with the present policies of the Red Cross.

"Chapters will be urged," says a report from Lake Division headquarters of the American Red Cross, "to volunteer the services of their workers to local hospitals in making up materials supplied by such hospitals into the surgical dressings, hospital garments, or hospital supplies."

"By thus offering to the hospitals the service of Red Cross workers the value of the contribution to be made will be greatly increased and the Red Cross will effectively demonstrate its appreciation of co-operation given during the stress of the war."

These recommendations made recently in a letter from F. C. Monroe, General Manager of the American Red Cross at Washington, D. C., will answer the questions which have been asked from time to time as to what the Red Cross is doing with this material not in use at the time of the signing of the armistice.

WHAT IS PROPOSED

The plan of rural development in Kentucky through educational meetings in sixty counties and a later survey of rural life conditions is being gotten under way under the direction of a Board of Trade committee headed by Judge R. W. Bingham, publisher of the Courier-Journal and the Louisville Times.

It will have the backing of many of the most influential men in the city and state, and the co-operation of the United States Department of Agriculture, the State Department of Agriculture, the College of Agriculture and its extension Department the State Departments of Education, Roads and Health, Kentucky University and the State Normal Schools.

Lines of Instruction

Instruction will be given on such subjects of rural life as the school, the home, highways, hog raising, poultry raising, dairying, fruit growing, bee keeping and public health.

The actual educational work will be gotten under way early in July and will continue thru August and into September. It is planned to have a three days' tent meeting in each county. These "farm schools" will be in progress in three counties at the same time, and the programs will be rotated in such a way that it will be possible to use the same corps of instructors for all meetings. In this way it is expected to conduct meetings in sixty counties before the end of summer.

Following these schools the committee hopes and expects to have one of the Eastern Research Bureaus to conduct an exhaustive survey of various counties in the state and then to make a report on each county, which may be made the basis of a campaign of improvement.

The program and schedule of counties for these meetings is to be worked out from an office at the Board of Trade. This will be in charge of James Speed, publicity manager for the College of Agriculture. Morgan Hughes, director of Extension work in Kentucky, has been loaned by the Extension Department to take charge of and direct the work for three months.

THE JOY OF LIVING.

To enjoy life we must have good health. No one can reasonably hope to get much real pleasure out of life when his bowels are clogged a good share of the time and the poisons that should be expelled are absorbed into the system, producing headache and indigestion. A few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets will move the bowels, strengthen the digestion and give you a chance to realize the real joy of living. Try it.

The power a man puts into saving measures the power of the man in everything he undertakes.

Cecil Maxey, who has been working as a man on the Dixie Highway for a few weeks, and who was formerly ticket agent with the L. & N. at Harboursville, has been appointed ticket agent at Harboursville on a nice increase of salary.

Mrs. G. K. Rawlings, of Corbin, has again been selected to carry the Home Economics flag in Knox Co. Mrs. Rawlings has done splendid work and we are pleased to learn that she will continue with us.

Richard C. Miller, who has been elected a Fellow, State of Kentucky University, has been instructed to take up the subject of Mountain Sheep and Knox County has been selected for a special survey as this section of the State is specially adapted to sheep and more attention should be given to the raising of these animals. Haphazard methods are no longer desirable and scientific management will be necessary to achieve real success.

The Editor has been informed by Mr. R. C. Miller that owing to other duties for next year he will not be able to make the race for representative from Knox County. A fuller statement will appear in next issue.

G. M. Hignite, who recently sold his home in Harboursville, has purchased a blue grass farm at Hamilton, Ohio, for $17,000. The blue grass is knee high and the farm will be worked as a stock and grain farm. Mr. Hignite has a host of warm friends who will wish him every good fortune in his new purchase.
